

Teachers & Parents

Read the exciting story of a young girl in colonial North Carolina to your students and children.

“Molly’s Beaufort Town”

Starting DATE: <INSERT DATE>

Ending DATE: <INSERT DATE>

In the serial story, Molly’s Beaufort-town, author Lynn Allred imagines what happened to a young, adventurous girl living in Beaufort during the 1760s before she sailed to England to visit her family: Who was this little girl? What might her family have been like? Who could have been her friends and neighbors? What kind of life did she leave behind when she left Beaufort for England?

Each of the 10 chapters includes an illustration, a photo and background information about North Carolina, a newspaper activity and a link to a Web site that provides a teaching guide and set of graphic organizers. The story was written by Lynn Allred.

To receive newspapers for use in your classroom and this story, complete the following order form and return it to your NIE program. The story may also appear in e-Editions that you order for use in your classroom.

I wish to order newspapers on the following publishing dates: < INSERT ALL DATES>

Name _____

School _____

School address _____

City _____ State _____ Zip _____

No. of newspapers or classroom set _____

Contact at your newspaper _____

